Scan-Optics Teams with Results Engineering for Renewed Focus on Process Efficiency and Cost Reduction

Manchester, CT and Columbus, OH – June 12, 2008 – Scan Optics, LLC and Results Engineering announce a strategic marketing and sales alliance to bring their clients best of breed solutions in ECM and document management.

Scan-Optics, an internationally acknowledged innovator and provider of information capture and recognition as well as business process outsourcing services, teamed up with Results Engineering, a leader in Enterprise Content Management, to bring to their clients, productivity improvements, process efficiencies and cost reductions.

“The strategic alliance will go far beyond the many outdated transaction –oriented ‘resellers agreements’ seen in the market today. We are developing joint solutions, ‘result-focused’ proposals that will deliver a full range of document and enterprise content management services to our clients,” said Randy Love, Results Engineering Vice President of Sales & Business Development.

Ray Parker, Executive Vice President, Business Development, Scan Optics sees an example of the benefit to clients in Scan-Optics’ new SO 300 Enterprise Class Scanner. “When combined with Results Engineering’s process improvement and systems integration skills, the SO 300 will offer clients compelling value, not only through lowering the total cost of image capture and management, but providing a base platform that can be adapted to the future, avoiding the ‘forced obsolescence’ and total replacement costs often seen in other production scanner offerings.
